Global Privacy Controls:

DO NOT TRACK/GLOBAL PRIVACY CONTROL

Some browsers have incorporated "Do Not Track" (DNT) features that can send a signal to the websites you visit indicating you do not wish to be tracked. Because there is not a common understanding of how to interpret the DNT signal, our websites do not currently respond to browser DNT signals.

Ubisoft websites employ a consent management platform that receives and responds to Global Privacy Control (GPC) signals to streamline and automate the processing of website visitors consent preferences. Some browsers or plug-ins enable a "Global Privacy Control" ("GPC") signal, which you can learn more about at <https://globalprivacycontrol.org/>. If our site detects a GPC signal from your device or web browser, we will interpret it as either a Do Not Sell request or a request to limit the sale or sharing of personal information for targeted advertising, personalization, analytics, or multimedia content.
